Vault Process Certification

Vault Process Certification (VPC) ensures consistency in performance, stronger plastics, lower weight and higher cost savings.

VPC approved plastic resins contain unique additives that allow the bags to have thinner walls (“lower film gauges”) without sacrificing any of the strength of thicker bags (“higher film gauges”). The result is a lighter bag that saves money on shipping weight and has a lower impact on the environment.

The mechanical properties of VPC bags are strictly prescribed in order to withstand the vigor of cash vault and armored truck environments. Slip level (technically called the “coefficient of friction”) is specially formulated so that filled bags can be palletized without the risk of sliding or bursting.

Bags that earn the VPC seal can provide dramatic improvements in cash management performance, while lowering costs of the vault and other currency handling processes.
